Vancouver, British Columbia. Resolve Ventures Inc. (“Resolve”) announces that it has commenced a field exploration program on the newly acquired Klu property located in southwestern Yukon.

The Klu property consists of 526 contiguous claims covering 26,500 acres located in southwestern Yukon, approximately 130 kilometers north of the British Columbia border and approximately 200 kilometers west of Whitehorse. Ni-Cu-PGE mineralization was discovered on the Klu property by Inco Limited in 1994 during a reconnaissance survey of the area. A grab sample from a small chalcopyrite-pyrrhotite lens, taken during the 1994 survey, graded 2.6% Ni, 10.4% Cu, 75.8 g/t Pt, 7.9 g/t Pd, and 7.0 g/t Au.

On September 15, 2005 Resolve announced the completion of the acquisition of the Klu property from Inco Limited for a cash payment of $50,000 and the issuance of 1,190,476 common shares of Resolve. A preliminary assessment of the project data, which includes geological mapping, soil geochemistry, and magnetic/electromagnetic surveys, has been completed. The initial field assessment, currently in progress and extending as weather permits, includes geological mapping and prospecting. It is aimed at further evaluation and follow-up of the historical data for the purposes of future detailed exploration program design including the generation of drill targets.

Resolve Ventures has staked an additional 343 claims totaling over 35,100 acres in the Raglan area, Ungava region of Quebec. These claims are located adjacent to and west of Resolve’s existing Raglan holdings.
